Who Do You Think You Are?

In this 50-minute keynote, Nancy invites the audience to take a closer look at how they view their own performance and measure personal success. Using story and evidence-based concepts, she masterfully threads the needle on how we choose thoughts based on our own unique set of life experiences and what can happen when we challenge instead of believe them. The audience will learn that they have the power—right now—to change their experience by understanding how limiting belief patterns form and gain traction.

The Art of the Difficult Conversation

In this interactive talk, Nancy outlines actionable strategies for navigating any uncomfortable interaction. Beginning with a brief, user-friendly explanation of the brain's wiring, she explains the process through which we can navigate tense interactions with more ease, confidence, and skill.

Reigniting Your Young Genius

As young geniuses, we are constantly faced with opportunities to explore and discover, to try and fail. When do we stop trusting that part of ourselves and start letting limiting beliefs take over? It starts with the thoughts we choose. But we can choose differently and change our brain's wiring, to show up for ourselves in a more empowered way. In this talk, Nancy takes the audience on a journey to recapture that young genius mindset, to embrace what's possible.

WHY WORK WITH NANCY?

A master at simplifying complex concepts, Nancy weaves together storytelling and the fundamentals of neuroscience, inspiring audiences to re-examine and reframe self-limiting and negative thought patterns. Her talks delve into the process through which we choose thoughts and how it influences our performance, self-concept, and life experience.
